Dr. Steven Treon
MD, MA, PhD, FRCP, FACP

- Dr. Treon is the Director of the Bing Center for Waldenström's Macroglobulinemia at Dana Farber Cancer Institute (DFCI), a Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School, and Chair of the WM Clinical Trials Group.

- Dr. Treon earned a BA (Biology), MS (Biochemistry), PhD (Cancer Immunology), and MD with honors from Boston University, and MA from Harvard Medical School.

- He completed an Internal Medicine residency at Boston University Medical Center, Hematology/Medical Oncology Fellowship at Massachusetts General Hospital, and post-doctoral training at DFCI.

- In 1999, Dr. Treon initiated a WM clinic at DFCI which cares for nearly 2,500 WM patients annually. Using whole-genome sequencing, Dr. Treon's laboratory first identified highly recurring activating mutations in MYD88 and CXCR4 in WM patients and was the first to report that Bruton's tyrosine kinase (BTK) was a downstream target of the MYD88 L265 mutation, resulting in a study leading to the first-ever approval of a drug (ibrutinib) for WM.

- Dr. Treon has published extensively on topics in WM and related disorders, with over 300 peer reviewed original reports, reviews, editorials, and chapters in high-impact journals and textbooks.

- He has been the principal organizer of the biennial International Workshops on WM since 2000 and the International Patient and Physician Summits since 2003.

- His scientific work in WM has earned “Best of the American Society of Hematology” designations at the 2011 and 2013 Annual Meetings of the American Society of Hematology.

- In 2017, Dr. Treon was elected as a fellow to the Royal College of Physicians in London, and in 2018, as a fellow to the American College of Physicians. Currently, he is spear-heading large clinical trials within the United States directed at COVID-19 with BTK inhibitors.
